Re Proposal: Regulatory Capital Rule: Amendments Applicable to Large Banking Organizations and to Banking Organizations with Significant Trading Activity [R-1813] / Docket ID OCC-2023-0008 / RIN 3064-AF29

We are America's small businesses. We are builders, manufacturers, restaurant owners, and more. We run coffee shops, cleaners, corner stores and child care centers. We are the diverse entrepreneurs of 10,000 Small Businesses Voices, and we never stop working to create jobs and strengthen our local economies. On behalf of our community of more than 14,000 small businesses in all 50 states, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia, we respectfully submit this letter to express our serious concerns about your proposal to require U.S. banks to increase the capital they must hold.

We rely on America's banks to operate and grow our businesses, support our employees, and strengthen our communities. We are already struggling to access capital – according to an October 2023 survey of our community, 78% of us are concerned about our ability to access capital, a sharp increase from April 2022 when 77% of small business owners were confident about credit. And we worry these new proposals will make getting access to capital even harder. Only 29% of small business owners say our businesses can currently afford to take out a loan given current interest rates, and 85% of us are concerned that tightening capital will impact growth.<sup>1</sup> Even those of us who rely on smaller and community banks will almost certainly experience a further tightening of credit conditions.

This is because the proposed cumulative capital requirements for lending will make it more expensive for banks to loan to small businesses, and those added costs will no doubt be passed on to us. Banks already treat small businesses as risky borrowers, and we are concerned that the new calculations in this proposal will make borrowing costs unaffordable and capital inaccessible.

The timing of this proposal couldn't be worse. In fact, the Federal Reserve acknowledged recently that the share of households reporting that it is harder to obtain credit today than one year ago hit a new high in August<sup>2</sup>. According to our September 2023 survey, 84% of small businesses are concerned this proposal will negatively impact their ability to access capital in an already difficult market.<sup>3</sup>

Entrepreneurial risk-taking is something we should always value and protect here in America. We are asking the Federal Reserve to allow us to remain competitive and forward-leaning. We ask you to consider the consequences this rule might have on our ability to access capital and grow our small businesses.

Signed 3,092 small business owners from the 10KSB Voices community
