I believe that people should be able to enjoy adult content as legal age allows, and that no entity "Be that a bank, credit card company or otherwise." should have the right to deny such content when they hold such a monopoly on transactions for such services. "e.g. adult content or goods." I believe that there is far too much policing of such things and it violates the freedom of speech and even the life liberty and pursuit of happiness to allow any one entity to decide how one spends their money. As a legal "36" year old, I don't want to be controlled by credit card companies or banks, they shouldn't have the right to deny service to adult content creators. I feel this is unconstitutional, discriminatory and should be illegal. I hope my voice is heard.
