It's truly amazing. Right now everywhere in the world organizations are trying to get individuals to bore and bend to their will either by removing our god given rights, by making us fear them, or by removing our ability to financially sustain ourselves. Our free will is being slowly devoured by greed mongering, overly rich and pompous individuals. It's not the fact that we the consumers, the individuals who actually have to live our lives by these ridiculous and socialist ideas. We've lost our way as a country, favoritism has run rampant and trust has been utterly destroyed. Our ability to enjoy what content, where and how we please is just that-ours to enjoy and not for others to ban or traffic as they see fit. NSFW content is human nature. Hiding it is merely only denying our real existence. Not teaching our kids proper about it only makes things worse. The other thing is that as a take off our monies that they wish to limit their income streams even if they are of such content? It's unbelievable how far our society has been warped and twisted. Stop this nonsense. We Americans are not subjects of a socialist wannabe experiment. We just want to be able to enjoy our meager lives without being under microscopes. Please put this to a strong and honest inquisition. There's already too much lock down in how we can live, don't let this be another.
