

ANONYMOUS

Proposal and Comment Information

Title: Prohibition on Use of Reputation Risk or Other Supervisory Tools to Encourage or Compel Banking Organizations to Engage in Politicized or Unlawful Discrimination, R-1884

Comment ID: FR-2026-0002-01-C5174

Submitter Information

Name: Anonymous

Submitted Date: 03/11/2026

This is a direct attack on American Freedom, if such a thing even exists in this administration anymore. A bank can be privately owned and traded, meaning a handful of high wealth individuals could decide the monetary directives of their patrons. What happens when a person's home is tied up in a bank that no longer lets them spend their own money how they please? They can't leave to bank elsewhere; they would be financially ruined. On a smaller scale, what about their car, their savings accounts, their ROTH IRA, their company-matched 401k? Now the consumer is locked in to one bank that is telling them, no, you can't buy games on Steam because boobies are on there!!! Nooooo, your bank won't let you buy condoms online because thAT'S seX!! Horrifying!! <--Obvious sarcasm... Puritan ideals are being shoved down the American people's throats under a whitewashed, rosy-hued glow of protection and sanitation, "think of the children" and all their other hypocritical stances. If this goes to pass, what is next? The bank won't let you spend YOUR money that YOU worked for and YOU invested in THEIR business on something YOU want because THEY don't like it? What happens when they don't allow you to buy from a pharmacy that doesn't share stockholders with theirs? When their monopoly grows and now only a select few chains of pharmacies will be allowed the "privilege" of getting your money. What are they scared of there? Is it your heart medicine? Your weight management? Your child's insulin? Your sister's HRT? This is a stepping stone move. The end goal is total control, they just have to wedge their toe in the door before they can step through.