I am a husband and father who is scared about where the U.S. economy is headed, but am optimistic about where Bitcoin can take us. It is an escape valve that is available to anyone, without the barriers to entry like high-priced stocks or real estate. It is being held back from widespread adoption by ridiculous policies like this that group bitcoin in with any nonsense crypto like Dogecoin or Terra-luna. Give banks a realistic opportunity to support bitcoin so it can continue to spread and help more families like mine.
