Secretary
Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System

Dear Secretary McDonough:

I am Tim Proper, EVP at F&M Bank, a community bank based in Salisbury, NC that serves our small businesses, non-profits, individuals and municipalities. I appreciate the opportunity to comment on the Board's proposal to establish a special-purpose payment account.

Community banks meet rigorous standards for capital, supervision, consumer protection, and deposit insurance. These requirements protect depositors, support responsible local lending, and help keep the payment system safe. By granting direct access to the Federal Reserve payment system to institutions that are not subject to the same prudential, supervisory, and community-focused requirements, the proposal extends the benefits of Federal Reserve access without the corresponding safeguards. It could also divert deposits and payment activity away from the community banks like mine that support local economic development.

I am also concerned about the risk to the payment system. Extending this access shifts critical responsibilities, including Bank Secrecy Act/anti-money laundering and sanctions compliance, onto entities that may have less oversight than banks.

If the Board proceeds, I urge it to adopt strong, mandatory guardrails: a low limit on account balances and on the number of accounts during an initial period; mandatory Bank Secrecy Act/anti-money laundering and sanctions compliance requirements for every account holder; clear off-ramps and ongoing review if risks emerge; and an explicit statement that a payment account is not a pathway to a master account. Access to the Federal Reserve's accounts and services should remain tied to strong prudential oversight.

We only request a level playing field for Federal Reserve services.

Thank you for taking this perspective into consideration in your rule making.

Respectfully,

Timothy Proper
