Jerome Powell,

Capital One, one of the largest banks in the U.S, announced a 35.3 billion dollar deal to acquire Discover Financial Services. This merger would add Discover's 305 million cardholder network to Capital One's existing 100 million customers, creating the nation's sixth largest bank with a massive impact on the credit card industry.

If approved, this mega-merger would lead to further consolidation of power and influence in the lending market. This concentration would make it harder to hold banks accountable while limiting competition and reducing banking options for consumers nationwide.

A healthy economy relies on robust competition, and a successful democracy requires an economy that benefits all. This proposed merger poses a threat to both, hindering competition and economic inclusivity.

The Federal Reserve must stop this mega-merger immediately.

Sincerely,

Hello Ms. Naylor and Ms. Smith,

Please find attached a letter for Chair Powell signed by over 20 independent business groups urging regulators to block the Capital One/Discover merger. The signers are partners in the Small Business Rising <<https://www.smallbusinessrising.net/>> coalition, composed of independent trade associations and local business alliances representing 250,000+ small businesses across the U.S.

You can also find the letter on Small Business Rising's website <<https://www.smallbusinessrising.net/updates/cap-one-discover-merger/>> and it is covered in POLITICO Influence this evening.

My colleague Katy Milani (cc'd here) and I would be happy to answer any questions.

Thank you,

Lauren Gellatly

Dear Chair Powell, Acting Comptroller Hsu, Chair Gruenberg, and Assistant Attorney General Kanter:

As partners in Small Business Rising—a coalition of small business associations representing more than 250,000 independent businesses—we the undersigned organizations urge you to oppose the proposed merger between Capital One and Discover announced on February 19, 2024. Capital One's proposed $35 billion purchase of Discover Financial Services would combine two of the largest credit card companies in the United States¹ in the already highly consolidated banking and credit card industries, posing significant risks of decreasing market competition and increasing costs for small business merchants.

Concentrated market power is the single biggest threat facing independent businesses, and it's clear we have a financial system that benefits behemoth corporations at the expense of small businesses and consumers. Our coalition partners have identified exorbitant credit card interchange fees — also known as “swipe fees” — as a top issue undermining the ability of their small business members to serve their communities because these growing fees are eating into their margins. Swipe fees are often small businesses' highest expense after payroll.

As the top four and five companies in the U.S. credit card market by loans, a merger between Capital One and Discover would create a behemoth player, with an estimated “$250 billion in card balances and a market share of 22%.”² The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau

² “Capital One's $35 billion Discover deal hinges on playing consumer champion,” Reuters, February 21, 2024.

recently reported findings that big banks charge higher credit card interest rates than small banks and credit unions.³

Creating more concentrated power and consolidation in these markets serves company executives and shareholders, while doing further damage to an uneven playing field for small businesses, the cornerstone of our communities. In addition to navigating colossal gatekeeper platforms like Amazon which extract a monopoly tax on every sale⁴ and paying higher tax rates than large corporations,⁵ small businesses are drowning in ever-increasing swipe fees in today's largely cashless retail world.

As a coalition of truly small and independent businesses, we urge you to block the Capital One/Discover deal, which would hurt competition and increase the outsized power of the big banks and dominant credit card companies in a time when small businesses are calling on policymakers for relief and fairness.
